

EXTRA. 2 O'CLOCK.

MURDERER CAUGHT.

Veteran Paulsen's Slayer Taken, Bloodstained Axe in Hand.

He Fought Desperately with His Captor.

The Murdered Man's Jewelry Found in His Pockets.

The mystery surrounding the murder of Frank G. Paulsen, a veteran soldier, who was found hanged to death in his room on the top floor of 139 Hester street last night, has been solved by the arrest of the murderer.

The police are withholding the murderer's name for the present until the chain of evidence which is being fastened around him has been completed.

There is no doubt that the prisoner is the murderer. He has been fully identified as the man who was running away from the scene of the crime, and, besides, some of the murdered man's jewelry was found in his possession.

This proves that the motive for the murder was robbery.

The murderer was arrested at an early hour this morning by Policemen Meyers, of the East Fifth street station.

He had in his possession the axe with which it is supposed he slew Paulsen, and he tried to commit another murder by attacking the officer when the latter attempted to arrest him.

Meyers was on post on First street near the Bowery. Some of the people around there called his attention to a man who had been hanging around some of the saloons in the neighborhood where he showed up some jewelry which he wanted to sell.

The man attracted attention because of a long-handled axe which he carried.

Policemen Meyers watched the man and finally spoke to him when he met him in First street near the Bowery.

"Where did you get that jewelry?" he asked.

The man said it was none of the policeman's business, and Meyers attempted to place him under arrest.

The fellow resisted and attacked the officer with the axe.

They had a desperate struggle but Meyers overpowered and disarmed the fellow. Then he reached for assistance and had the prisoner taken to the Fifth street station.

When searched there was found in his possession a gold watch and chain, another gold chain, a ring and some small articles.

The prisoner answered the description of the man wanted for Paulsen's murder.

He is apparently a German, about thirty-five, with a short, full beard and dark hair. He wore lavender trousers, black cutaway coat and vest and black hat.

Capt. Cross, of the Eldridge street station, was notified of the arrest, and went up to the station-house to look at the prisoner.

He became satisfied that the prisoner was the right man.

At 10 o'clock this morning Policemen Meyers took the murderer, who was handcuffed, to Police Headquarters.

Capt. Cross and Doherty followed. The former had the axe with which the murder was committed and the jewelry stolen from the murdered man.

The murderer was taken into Supt. Byrne's office.

GREPT TO HER FATHER'S DOOR.

Pathetic Return of a Girl Who Had Been Cruelly Deceived.

She Fled with a Married Man, Who Treated Her Badly.

Louise Robb, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Andrew Robb, of 52 Beaver street, Williamsburg, has been missing since Sunday Sept. 18.

The parents of the girl were aroused at 3:30 this morning by repeated ringing at the doorbell, and, looking out of the window, the father saw the figure of a young woman lying prone on the steps.

Repeated questionings at last brought forth the response "It's Louise!"

The girl was carried tenderly upstairs, she having relapsed into unconsciousness. It was not until this forenoon that she was sufficiently recovered to tell her story.

Louise left the house Sept. 18 attired in her best gown, and did not return. At the same time Martin Kolb, a married man living in the same house, disappeared, and rumor connected the names of both.

To an EVENING WORLD reporter the girl said to-day that she had been infatuated with Kolb and had eloped with him.

After a few days she said, she found him to be a brute and a coward. She declared that he abused her and ordered her to make a living for both of them. Unable to endure such a life, she dragged herself last night from a furnished room on one of the east side streets of New York, where Kolb had taken her, to her father's house, begging her way across the Grand street ferry.

The father has forgiven the girl and avers he will have the life of her betrayer. Louise has several big brothers who are also on the warpath.

Mrs. Kolb, in the Lee Avenue Court this morning, said she would prosecute her recent husband to the bitter end.

WAS KAPFF A SUICIDE?

His Employers Believe He Took an Overdose by Mistake.

S. K. Kapff, who died yesterday afternoon at Delavan, House their employ a month ago, was believed by his employers to have committed suicide, was a traveling salesman for the firm of De Maessene & Co., importers of Japanese goods, at 100 and 111 Prince street.

A member of the firm said this morning that Kapff came into their employ a month ago and that he had been on a trip to the road for the house, but he had proven himself a good salesman.

The firm does not believe that he committed suicide. They say he had been suffering with malaria and delirium took an overdose of laudanum by mistake.

Kapff was married and lived with his wife and child, some three blocks away.

He arrived in Delavan from Birmingham last Sunday.

He was a traveling salesman for the firm of De Maessene & Co., importers of Japanese goods, at 100 and 111 Prince street.

Just before he died a telegram was received at the hotel stating that his wife was ill and asking him to come home.

He was found dead in his room at the hotel.

He was found dead in his room at the hotel.

He was found dead in his room at the hotel.

He was found dead in his room at the hotel.

He was found dead in his room at the hotel.

He was found dead in his room at the hotel.

He was found dead in his room at the hotel.

He was found dead in his room at the hotel.

He was found dead in his room at the hotel.

CLEVELAND AND HILL HERE.

The Ex-President Receives Callers at the Victoria Hotel.

County Democrats Organized for the Municipal Campaign.

Ex-President Grover Cleveland arrived in New York at 7 o'clock this morning on the steamer Pilgrim of the Fall River line.

An hour before the arrival of the boat a crowd had gathered on the pier to welcome him. Sergeant-at-Arms James Oliver, of the National Democratic committee, was on hand as a reception committee, and as soon as the Pilgrim had "unloaded" around into her dock Mr. Oliver jumped aboard.

Mr. Cleveland and his party did not, however, land until the greater part of the passengers had gone ashore. After the usual call on the committee, Mr. Cleveland, with him were Richard Watson, elder, Charles F. Chichester, Daniel Griffin, former chairman of the Democratic State committee, and Richard Harding Davis.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland, looking exceedingly well and valked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which he took with a good grace.

ACCUSERS IGNORED.

Do the Examiners Intend to Whitewash Donovan Again?

The Friedmans and Borsuk Reiterate Charges of Extortion.

But They Have Not Been Cited to Appear Before the Board.

There seems to be a settled determination on the part of the Medical Board of Examiners not to listen to the testimony of those persons who have brought charges of extortion against House Physician Donovan of Governor Hospital.

The board through its Secretary, Dr. Lawrence Johnson, of 263 West Twenty-eighth street, signified his willingness yesterday to an EVENING WORLD reporter to take the testimony of Joseph and Sam Friedman, of 77 Suffolk street, and Max Borsuk, of 92 Norfolk street, the principal accusers, in accordance with the board's instructions from President Porter, of the Bureau of Charities and Correction.

Notwithstanding, the board had taken no steps this morning to secure the attendance of those witnesses at the investigation this afternoon.

Have you received any sort of notice to appear before the investigating committee, an EVENING WORLD reporter asked Joseph Friedman late this forenoon.

"None at all," was the reply. "We did, however," said Joseph Friedman, "receive a threatening notice from some unknown person who seems to think that we Hebrews have no right to complain in a case like this."

The notice referred to by Friedman, and which was neither addressed nor signed, was written in German and bore evidence of having been penned by an illiterate person.

It will be remembered that the Medical Board of Examiners at their first investigation last Monday afternoon, Dr. Donovan, who was charged with extortion on the ground that he had taken $20,000 from Joseph Friedman, the latter freely gave him out of gratitude.

Whether it was not preposterous to think that a grateful man would charge his benefactor with extortion, the board will not consider after making such a present turn around and denounce the person towards whom he felt grateful, Secretary Dr. Johnson replied.

"Oh, the man who gave the money did not denounce the doctor; it was Sam Friedman who charged Dr. Donovan in an affidavit with having extorted the money."

Joseph Friedman, who is the man from whom Dr. Donovan confessed to have received the $20,000, was asked by an EVENING WORLD reporter this morning whether the affidavit of Samuel Friedman was true.

"Perfectly true," he replied. "Samuel was present when the money was given. The doctor took the money and the affidavit is that the person who caused the money to be made happened to meet Samuel before me."

As to gratitude, it is all bosh. If I had been asked to make an affidavit charging Dr. Donovan with extortion, I should have done so at the very moment when I was said by the doctor to be a grateful man. The doctor, that is, right at the very moment of giving him the money."

Mrs. Rebecca Friedman, Joseph's mother, who was severely injured during the panic last Friday at the synagogue, 77 Ludlow street, was taken to her home, 77 Suffolk street, from Governor Hospital Wednesday evening.

"My mother," said Joseph, "is still in a critical condition. She complains bitterly about the treatment she received at the hospital. The reports are not true that she was being cured with the utmost consideration and the doctor is doing his best to cure her. They refused to comply with her most urgent and reasonable requests, and often left her for many hours without any attention."

Max Borsuk, the photographer, of 92 Norfolk street, said to an EVENING WORLD reporter this morning:

"The statement of Dr. Donovan before the investigating committee last Monday, that there was not a word of truth in my charge that he extorted $1 from me, is a deliberate falsehood."

"I have not been cited to testify before the committee this afternoon, but am ready to be confronted with the doctor at any time, and tell him to his face that he made me pay $1 before he would let me see my wife."

THE LETTER THAT WENT WRONG.

Uncle Sam's Blunders Cause a Swain Some Heart-Burns.

Blundering postal clerks, by sending to Chicago a letter addressed by a New York citizen to his Brooklyn fiancée, have very nearly transformed a little love story into a tragic romance.

Editor Antonio V. Alvarado, of the Mexican Guerra y Libertad, was the victim. He wrote to Anita Tinagera, of 37 Lafayette avenue, Brooklyn, on Monday, according to his solemn promise. The address was plain, but the postal clerk, by mistake, sent it to the wrong place. The letter was discovered immediately and the error was corrected. Miss Tinagera received it yesterday afternoon. She needed not its date for the several months which it had been in transit, and the victim is very angry with the post.

TEXAS PARCHED BY DROUGHT.

Brooklyn's Late Republican Candidate to Speak for Cleveland.

Henry A. Meyer, last year's Republican candidate for Mayor of Brooklyn, who is now candidate for Mayor of Cleveland and Stevenson, will make a public statement as to the reasons for his political change in the City of the Future, Brooklyn, Thursday evening.

The meeting will be under the auspices of the Cleveland and Stevenson Club. Mr. Meyer has an easy style of oratory that convinces his hearers of his heartiness.

Many Singers Invited to the Fair.

THE MAN OF MANY CRIMES.

He is Wanted in Jersey City on an Old Indictment.

Supposed Cause of the Murder of Capt. Buckley and His Wife.

The news from Cape Town, Africa, that Capt. George P. Buckley and his wife, of the bark William Hales, from this port July 21 last, had been murdered at sea, as was told in the EVENING WORLD's sporting Extra yesterday, was a shock to shipping men in this city.

Nothing but the bare intelligence that the murder had been committed was contained in the cablegram which Capt. M. P. Smith, the shipping merchant at 41 South street, received yesterday from the United States Consul at Cape Town.

The William Hales carried a general cargo and a crew of eleven men besides Capt. Buckley and his wife. Nothing had been heard of the vessel until the cablegram came, and the only shipping men who can give a clue to the tragedy is that it was the result of a mutiny on board.

Capt. Buckley was fifty-five years old, and a native of Liverpool, L. I. He was well known and had been in the employ of Capt. Smith a number of years. He recently acquired a controlling interest in the Hales.

His wife was a Miss Harriet Young, of Governors, L. I. He leaves a son, and a married daughter. The son is a Boston dweller.

Four brothers of Capt. Buckley are residents of Brooklyn, where Capt. Buckley had made his home of late years.

THE MAN OF MANY CRIMES.

MUTINY ON THE HIGH SEAS.

A Bishop Seeks the Cause of Strange Apparitions at Canton, Minn.

WINONA, Minn., Sept. 30.—The peculiar manifestations in a window of the Catholic church of Canton are to be scientifically examined by Bishop Cotter, of Winona.

Several weeks ago the inhabitants of Canton, Minn., were startled by the appearance of a portrait, said to be of Jesus Christ, in a window of the Catholic church there. At first the apparition appeared in the window of the church, and then it appeared in a window of the pictures of the church.

Then visitors claim that four figures were discernible behind the window. These would gradually fade away, giving place to the mother and babe. The apparition was seen by a number of people, and it was said that it was a sign of the coming of the Christ.

After his departure no more communication will be held with outside parties during the prevalence of the cholera. This is considered absolutely necessary, as there are many of the cholera victims who are still in the hospital.

The Royal Mail steamship Atrato, which arrived at Savannah after the declaration of hostilities, was delayed by the outbreak of the war.

After his departure no more communication will be held with outside parties during the prevalence of the cholera. This is considered absolutely necessary, as there are many of the cholera victims who are still in the hospital.

The Royal Mail steamship Atrato, which arrived at Savannah after the declaration of hostilities, was delayed by the outbreak of the war.

After his departure no more communication will be held with outside parties during the prevalence of the cholera. This is considered absolutely necessary, as there are many of the cholera victims who are still in the hospital.

The Royal Mail steamship Atrato, which arrived at Savannah after the declaration of hostilities, was delayed by the outbreak of the war.

After his departure no more communication will be held with outside parties during the prevalence of the cholera. This is considered absolutely necessary, as there are many of the cholera victims who are still in the hospital.

The Royal Mail steamship Atrato, which arrived at Savannah after the declaration of hostilities, was delayed by the outbreak of the war.

After his departure no more communication will be held with outside parties during the prevalence of the cholera. This is considered absolutely necessary, as there are many of the cholera victims who are still in the hospital.

The Royal Mail steamship Atrato, which arrived at Savannah after the declaration of hostilities, was delayed by the outbreak of the war.

After his departure no more communication will be held with outside parties during the prevalence of the cholera. This is considered absolutely necessary, as there are many of the cholera victims who are still in the hospital.

The Royal Mail steamship Atrato, which arrived at Savannah after the declaration of hostilities, was delayed by the outbreak of the war.

After his departure no more communication will be held with outside parties during the prevalence of the cholera. This is considered absolutely necessary, as there are many of the cholera victims who are still in the hospital.

The Royal Mail steamship Atrato, which arrived at Savannah after the declaration of hostilities, was delayed by the outbreak of the war.

After his departure no more communication will be held with outside parties during the prevalence of the cholera. This is considered absolutely necessary, as there are many of the cholera victims who are still in the hospital.

THAT BULL'S EYE.

THE MAN OF MANY CRIMES.

He is Wanted in Jersey City on an Old Indictment.

Supposed Cause of the Murder of Capt. Buckley and His Wife.

The news from Cape Town, Africa, that Capt. George P. Buckley and his wife, of the bark William Hales, from this port July 21 last, had been murdered at sea, as was told in the EVENING WORLD's sporting Extra yesterday, was a shock to shipping men in this city.

Nothing but the bare intelligence that the murder had been committed was contained in the cablegram which Capt. M. P. Smith, the shipping merchant at 41 South street, received yesterday from the United States Consul at Cape Town.

The William Hales carried a general cargo and a crew of eleven men besides Capt. Buckley and his wife. Nothing had been heard of the vessel until the cablegram came, and the only shipping men who can give a clue to the tragedy is that it was the result of a mutiny on board.

Capt. Buckley was fifty-five years old, and a native of Liverpool, L. I. He was well known and had been in the employ of Capt. Smith a number of years. He recently acquired a controlling interest in the Hales.

His wife was a Miss Harriet Young, of Governors, L. I. He leaves a son, and a married daughter. The son is a Boston dweller.

Four brothers of Capt. Buckley are residents of Brooklyn, where Capt. Buckley had made his home of late years.

THE MAN OF MANY CRIMES.

MUTINY ON THE HIGH SEAS.

A Bishop Seeks the Cause of Strange Apparitions at Canton, Minn.

WINONA, Minn., Sept. 30.—The peculiar manifestations in a window of the Catholic church of Canton are to be scientifically examined by Bishop Cotter, of Winona.

Several weeks ago the inhabitants of Canton, Minn., were startled by the appearance of a portrait, said to be of Jesus Christ, in a window of the Catholic church there. At first the apparition appeared in the window of the church, and then it appeared in a window of the pictures of the church.

Then visitors claim that four figures were discernible behind the window. These would gradually fade away, giving place to the mother and babe. The apparition was seen by a number of people, and it was said that it was a sign of the coming of the Christ.

After his departure no more communication will be held with outside parties during the prevalence of the cholera. This is considered absolutely necessary, as there are many of the cholera victims who are still in the hospital.

The Royal Mail steamship Atrato, which arrived at Savannah after the declaration of hostilities, was delayed by the outbreak of the war.

After his departure no more communication will be held with outside parties during the prevalence of the cholera. This is considered absolutely necessary, as there are many of the cholera victims who are still in the hospital.

The Royal Mail steamship Atrato, which arrived at Savannah after the declaration of hostilities, was delayed by the outbreak of the war.

After his departure no more communication will be held with outside parties during the prevalence of the cholera. This is considered absolutely necessary, as there are many of the cholera victims who are still in the hospital.

The Royal Mail steamship Atrato, which arrived at Savannah after the declaration of hostilities, was delayed by the outbreak of the war.

After his departure no more communication will be held with outside parties during the prevalence of the cholera. This is considered absolutely necessary, as there are many of the cholera victims who are still in the hospital.

The Royal Mail steamship Atrato, which arrived at Savannah after the declaration of hostilities, was delayed by the outbreak of the war.

After his departure no more communication will be held with outside parties during the prevalence of the cholera. This is considered absolutely necessary, as there are many of the cholera victims who are still in the hospital.

The Royal Mail steamship Atrato, which arrived at Savannah after the declaration of hostilities, was delayed by the outbreak of the war.

After his departure no more communication will be held with outside parties during the prevalence of the cholera. This is considered absolutely necessary, as there are many of the cholera victims who are still in the hospital.

The Royal Mail steamship Atrato, which arrived at Savannah after the declaration of hostilities, was delayed by the outbreak of the war.

After his departure no more communication will be held with outside parties during the prevalence of the cholera. This is considered absolutely necessary, as there are many of the cholera victims who are still in the hospital.

The Royal Mail steamship Atrato, which arrived at Savannah after the declaration of hostilities, was delayed by the outbreak of the war.

THAT BULL'S EYE.

THE MAN OF MANY CRIMES.

He is Wanted in Jersey City on an Old Indictment.

Supposed Cause of the Murder of Capt. Buckley and His Wife.

The news from Cape Town, Africa, that Capt. George P. Buckley and his wife, of the bark William Hales, from this port July 21 last, had been murdered at sea, as was told in the EVENING WORLD's sporting Extra yesterday, was a shock to shipping men in this city.

Nothing but the bare intelligence that the murder had been committed was contained in the cablegram which Capt. M. P. Smith, the shipping merchant at 41 South street, received yesterday from the United States Consul at Cape Town.

The William Hales carried a general cargo and a crew of eleven men besides Capt. Buckley and his wife. Nothing had been heard of the vessel until the cablegram came, and the only shipping men who can give a clue to the tragedy is that it was the result of a mutiny on board.

Capt. Buckley was fifty-five years old, and a